Detailed Instructions

General Instructions

Federal Reserve Bank policy requires the reporting and publishing of this information, which will be reviewed to determine compliance with applicable Federal Reserve policies and federal laws. Falsification of information or failure to file or report information required to be reported may subject you to disciplinary action, including termination of employment.

Who Must File?

- President
- FRBNY First Vice President
- Any officer authorized to vote at an FOMC meeting

When to File/Reporting Period

New Filers: Complete promptly upon request of your Ethics Officer, but no later than 30 days after assuming a covered position.

Annual Filers: No later than May 15 annually.

Separation Filers: Complete within 30 days of the date that you no longer hold a position that requires the filing of this report (“covered position”). The reporting period begins on the end of the period covered by your previous filings and ends on the date that you no longer hold a covered position.

Extensions: In coordination with the Board Designated Ethics Official, the Reserve Bank’s Ethics Officer may grant you an extension of up to 45 days for good cause shown with the possibility of one additional extension of up to 45 days.

Where to File

With the Reserve Bank’s Ethics Officer, or that person’s delegee, at the Bank.

Scope of Disclosure

The extent of the reporting requirement is noted in each Part.

In addition to your individual financial information, you are required to report information concerning your spouse, domestic partner, and dependent children in several Parts of the Form A, and information regarding positions held by other individuals (your spouse, domestic partner, child, parent or sibling) in Part 1 of the form. However, no report is required with respect to your spouse or domestic partner if they are living separate and apart from you with the intention of terminating the marriage or providing for permanent separation.

There are other exceptions to the reporting of assets and income, transactions, and liabilities of a spouse, domestic partner, or dependent child, which are discussed in the instructions applicable to those subjects.

A basic premise of the financial disclosure requirements is that those having responsibility for review of reports filed must be given sufficient information by reporting individuals concerning the nature of their outside interests and activities so that an informed judgment can be made with respect to compliance with applicable conflict of interest laws and standards of conduct. Therefore, it is important that you carefully complete all required Parts of the Form A. This report is a safeguard for you as well as the Federal Reserve System, in that it provides a mechanism for determining actual or potential conflicts between your responsibilities as a Bank employee and your private interests and activities and allows you and the Bank to fashion appropriate protections against such conflicts when they first appear.

If, after reviewing your Form A, the Ethics Officer concludes that they need additional information from you, you will be so advised and are required to provide the requested information.
